UPCOMING EVENTS PREVIEW

Folk Play: The Fool and the Princess

"The Fool and the Princess" turns the popular Three Kingdoms legend into a "Korean-style" musical that proves you don't need a big foreign title to entertain the masses. The show tells the tale of Goguryeo General On Dal, a.k.a. On Dal The Fool, who rose above his simple-mindedness and lowly background to become one of the kingdom's greatest generals with the help of his strong-willed wife, Princess Pyeonggang. It also stars a seasoned cast of veteran film, TV and stage performers.

Picasso and Modern Art

Picasso and Modern Art is the first overseas exhibit of Vienna's Albertina Museum of Art, one of Austria's top fine art museums. The exhibit, taking place as part of the newspaper Chosun Ilbo's 90th anniversary, brings to Korea 121 works by some of the most illustrious names in modern art, including Picasso, Chagall, Giacometti, Modigliani and Baselitz. Broken into four sections (Impressionism, Expressionism, Der Blaue Reiter and New Expressionism), the exhibit is an especially good opportunity to see rarely exhibited works by German Expressionists.

The 36th Seoul Independent Film Festival

Presented by the Association of Korean Independent Film & Video and the Korean Film Commission, Seoul Independent Film Festival (SIFF) is one of the representative events for independent films in Korea. The festival is very open, running Korean independent films regardless of genre, and serves as a venue for international exchange by introducing noted overseas independent films to a Korean audience. It is interactive as well, welcoming volunteers and encouraging audience participation.

Lang Lang Piano Recital

Since his first encounter with the piano at age 3, Chinese-born pianist Lang Lang has grown into one of the world's most popular and sought-after pianists: TIME magazine even named him one of the world's most influential people. The artist even performed for the Nobel Peace Prize ceremony in 2009. In this performance, we'll get to hear Lang perform selections by Beethoven, Albeniz and Prokofiev.

Nunsensation

"The Nunsensations: The Nonsense Vegas Revue" brings the Nonsense crew to Sin City after a parishioner volunteers to donate $10,000 to the sister's school if they perform in a club in Las Vegas. Hilarity, with a lot of sequin and feathers, ensues. Since debuting in Korea in 1991, the Nonsense series has become Korea's longest running performance, and it still manages to pack the seats every night.

Ryuichi Sakamoto— Playing the Piano-Korea 2011

Who said there's no truth in advertising: in his concert "Playing the Piano," Japanese musical great and Oscar-winning composer Ryuichi Sakamoto plays the piano. Two, in fact, with one programmed to play along on duets. A must-see for any self-respecting fan of New Age music, the concert marks Sakamoto's first concert in Korea in a decade.

The 10th Jazz Christmas by Ronn Branton

Celebrate the holidays with jazz pianist Ronn Branton, whose Christmas concerts have been a part of Seoul's Yuletide scene for a decade. A long-time resident of Korea, Branton's Christmas concerts feature jazz renditions of well-known Western Christmas carols, Korean winter songs and everyone's favorite, selections from "Charlie Brown's Christmas." Performing with Branton will be saxophonist Klæe, who has collaborated with Branton for two decades.

Treasures of the Vietnamese Imperial House

The exhibit "Treasures of the Vietnamese Imperial House" gives Koreans (and residents of Korea) a rare chance to experience Vietnamese art and history as contained in the collection of the Nguyen Dynasty, which ruled Vietnam from 1802 to 1945. The exhibit features 165 relics from the Hue Royal Antiquities Museum, as well as photos that provide meaning to the artifacts. The Nguyen dynasty oversaw a dramatic time in Vietnamese history, uniting the nation but also witnessing the rise of French imperialism and World War II.

Hwang Byung-ki— Sori (song) Journey Garak (a type of melody) and Story Father

One of the most important names in Korean traditional music, gayageum master Hwang Byung Ki has been performing for five decades. In this concert, young musicians pay tribute to Hwang with their own reinterpretations of his work. Hwang's music was once described by the New York Times as "the musical equivalents of mystically inspired watercolors, musically illustrat[ing] the concept of translucency with finely spun webs of sound created by extremely delicate strummings."

KOREA, the Style 2010

With its theme of "Korean Creativity," Korea, the Style 2010 is expected to draw some 50,000 people, all eager to see the best in Korean design. With its highlight on Korean traditional crafts, the expo looks to boost the brand value of Korean traditional culture and introduce the world to its intrinsic value. It also presents a vision of Korean tradition reinterpreted for the global consumers of today.

Yu Jin-ju—Meeting between Traditional Dance and New Dance

Korean traditional dancer Yu Jin-ju and the Gain Dance Troupe are bringing the works of Han Yeong-suk, Choe Hyeon, Pak Byeong-cheon and other 20th century masters of "new" Korean dance to a modern audience. This is no mere exercise in cultural preservation, though: it's a chance to see traditional dance and "new" dance meet in a first-rate creative performance crafted to appeal to modern-day tastes. It's also an opportunity for those unfamiliar with Korean dance to experience the beauty and grace of an art that many feel is being forgotten.

Universal Ballet—The Nutcracker

It's not the Christmas season without "The Nutcracker," and the Universal Ballet company obliges with its own version of the Tchaikovsky classic. The Universal Ballet's version sets itself apart with its unique take on Act 2's "Mother Ginger and Her Children," featuring Mother Ginger dancing with ten children hiding under her giant skirt. No child should grow up without seeing the "The Nutcracker" at least once.

Seoul Festival of Lights 2010

The Seoul Festival of Lights brightens up the night with installations and displays by top artists and technicians from Korea and overseas. Focusing on the area around the Cheonggyecheon, the festival mixes technology and art to bring beautiful works of light art to public spaces. Cutting-edge technology like LEDs will keep energy use down, a must in these ecologically conscious days.

Performance Show Funtasy

"Funtasy" uses magic, bubbles, mime and comedy to bring, as the name would suggest, a bit of fun back into our lives. Also as part of the show, comedian Im Hyeok-pil delights audiences with sand animation as he uses sand and light to tell a very visually impressive story. If you like Korea's non-verbal performances, this is right up your alley.

This amazing exhibit at the National Museum of Korea puts on display some 220 artifacts from some 10 museums China's western Silk Road provinces. Most fascinating for Korean visitors is a copy of "The Memoir of the Pilgrimage to the Five Kingdoms of India," and 8th century travelogue by Silla Buddhist monk Hyecho, a work believed lost until it was discovered in the Mogao Caves of the Silk Road oasis of Dunhuang by French sinologist and explorer Paul Pelliot in 1908. The document is considered a jewel of historical travel literature, and provides priceless information on eighth century India and Central Asia. On loan from the National Library of France, the work will be shown in Korea a mere 1,283 years after it was written. Born in Silla in 704, the Ven. Hyecho traveled to China as a teen to study Buddhism with the Indian monk Vajrabodhi, who encouraged the Korean monk to make the four-year trip on foot to India, the birthplace of Buddhism.

The first Hyundai Super Concert bring singer/songwriter great Sting to Seoul. Already a legend as the frontman for the iconic 1970s and 1980s band The Police, Sting continued his musical success with a brilliant solo career that began in 1985. The world tour of which this concert is a part marks the release this year of his tenth album "Symphoncities," and features some of his best-loved hits, including "Shape of My Heart," "Englishman in New York," "Fields Of Gold," "Every Breath You Take" and "Roxanne." A member of the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame and Songwriters Hall of Fame, Sting's interests extend far beyond music to environmental and social causes, for which he was named a Commander of the Order of the British Empire in 2003.

(02) 2188-6000
Seoul Grand Park Station, Line 4, Exit 4. Take the shuttle bus.

Experience pop art, the Asian way. "Made in Popland" features 150 works of pop art by 42 of Korea, China and Japan's biggest pop artists. Through pop art, which makes little distinction between high and low art and is easy to understand, the viewer can examine the way in which we live. Artists whose work will be on display include Hong Gyeong-taek and Go Young-hun from Korea, Wang Guangyi and Feng Mengbo from China, and Yanobe Kenji and Takashi Murakami from Japan. Pop art contextualizes the overflowing images of mass media, mass culture and mass consumption society anew by means of diverse methods, such as borrowing, diverting, and copying. In this spirit, the exhibit seeks to draw attention to the context of the pieces displayed rather than the images themselves.
